Highlights™

a sunny, stormy, snowy

Hello

An issue all about WEATHER

STORY

BY DIANNE MORITZ

THUNDER

Lightning flashes—

ZIP, ZAP, ZOOM!

Tip » Storms can be scary. Next time it storms, hold your child snugly in your arms and make a game of booming back at the thunderclaps together.

storm

Thunder crashes—
BIM, BAM,
BOOM!

After the Rain

(To the tune of "Open, Shut Them")

From my window
I see clouds go
Slowly passing by.
From my window
See a rainbow
Brighten up the sky.

Tip » Go outside after a storm and look up. Often, rain leads to a rainbow. No rainbow? Help your child look for shapes in the clouds.

Tip » After your child finds the objects, talk about the picture. Sunglasses, sun hats, ice-cream cones . . . What do you suppose the weather is like here?

When

When the wind blows, the trees

PHOTO BY ISTOCK/GETTY IMAGES PLUS/ABLOKHIN

Tip » Indoors, look in a mirror together. Blow gently so your child can see his or her hair move. On a windy day, watch the trees wave hello. Wave back!

snow

Outside, snowflakes flutter by.
Fluffy, puffy, squishy sky,
slushy, mushy, squashy ground, squeaky, squelchy, scrunchy sound! . . .

Inside, snowflakes melt away.
We can't wait for the next snow day!

Tip » Snow brings new sensory experiences: seeing snowflakes fall; feeling the softness underfoot; tasting a cold snowflake. Enjoy the many words in the story that describe these winter sensations.

Weather

Tip » Over time, your child will recognize these common icons for weather conditions. Say the words together. Can you and your child find rain, lightning, rainbow, sun, wind, and snow in this issue?
