Where's Bear?

Oh no! I've lost my teddy bear.
He's not on the table.
He's not on the chair.

What a relief—the bear was found! After finishing the story, talk about all the other toys you see. Then talk about how the boy would feel if he couldn't find his beloved bear.

He's small and cuddly.
He's got brown hair.
Have you seen my teddy bear?

I looked in the kitchen.

I looked on the stair.
But I can't find him.
He just isn't there.

"You can stop looking," my big sister said.

"Your bear is waiting—on your bed!"

My Box

By Valerie Marchini • Art by Deborah Melmon

I play in my box with some of my toys.

I'm crawling past the kitchen, creeping on the floor.

Read the story, then encourage your little one to crawl, creep, scoot, and peek. Give her a big hug, too!

All Grown Up

By Shirley Guendling

Look at me,
I'm all grown up.

After reading the poem and pointing to and naming things in the photo, talk with your little one about how he's growing up. What can he do now that he couldn't do a few months ago?

I drink from a sippy cup.
I tip my cup. I hold it up.

It tastes good. I slurp it up.
Can't you see I'm all grown up?
I drink from a sippy cup.
